

NEW DEPUTY LIEUTENANTS

Ald. Gibson

Ald. Marshall

The Lord Lieutenant of Surrey has appointed Ald. James Marshall and Ald. C. H. Gibson, both members of Croydon Council, Deputy Lieutenants of the county.

The qualifications for a Deputy Lieutenant are that he must live in the county or within seven miles of it, and must have rendered worthy service with the naval, military or air forces, as a member of one of the Services, or in a civil capacity.

Ald. Gibson served in the Royal Engineers in both world wars and was gazetted a lieutenant-colonel in 1941. Since 1945 he has taken a close interest in Croydon's Territorial Army units.

Ald. Marshall has done valuable work for the Territorial Army as Croydon's representative on the Surrey Territorial Association.
